arrived. It is said that she left, to go for the Promethea's passengers on the other side of the Lake, but rumor says she left to benefit the hotels! one thing I know that Sprague who keeps the United States Hotel is coined to know when she would be back,better than the clerks of the agent, the agent himself being sick, and when asked how he knew that she would not return till two days after our arrival, replied, "I ought to know, for my partner is matron her."

The clerks informed us that she would return in one day. Sprague's prediction proved true. She came on the second day about ten o'clock, and the baggage being brought to the breakwater, and our checks given up which were given us at San Juan, the baggage was put into the large life-boat and with a load of passengers, was hauled off to the steamer, nearly half a mile from the shore, the water being too shallow to admit of her coming nearer. Some of the passengers had hired mules not in the employ of the Company, to bring their baggage over the land, thinking to carry it on board and so get through for a trifle, but the agent allowed none to pass without the checks, and they were obliged to pay the fifteen cents per pound in addition to that already paid for their mules —others had a deduction of five cents per lb I purchased a large basket of fruit and some boiled eggs, which, with a twelve pounder of soda crackers, that I procured before leaving San Francisco, I took for my provision by the Lake, and going down the river, which it was well I did, provisions being very scarce and dear on board of all the boats.

Three or four trips of the life-boat took us all on board, and at 2 o'clock we hoisted anchor and left for San Carlos. Objects of interest were not wanting to attract our attention among the motley group. There were several dissolute beings, one had lost $500, all he was worth—it was stolen from his carpet-bag, entrusted to the keeper of the hotel; another—a passenger in the all-fated North America at the time of her wreck,—had all his clothing stolen; various were the thefts committed on the last night of our stay at Virgin Bay. Besides human objects to interest us, there were talking parrots, California cats, parroquets, monkeys and Nicaragua squirrels. The time till our arrival at San Carlos soon passed away. At 9 the same night we had arrived at this rather picturesque town, consisting of 21 thatched covered huts. Here we lay till the next morning, but very few, I fancy, slept. Not a breath of air was stirring till near daylight. The hum of the myriads of musquitoes was like the blast attached to the furnace of a steamer. A part of the time I amused myself with a survey of the mass of humanity spread out on any spot where a human being could lay on the decks, they were in close tiers, while many were in tears to think that they should ever have been caught in such a fix. Getting further way at 6, seemed to put them in better spirits, and we were anticipating being on board of the Prometheus the next night, but, alas! what folly to anticipate anything pleasant of this route. One had reason to hope for a quick trip down a rapid running river since the assurance of, the agent, at San Francisco, that we should be on the steamers at Greytown in 14 days from our departure from California. So we went on for about three hours and to the, Toro Rapids, where we learnt that we were to walk one mile, to the steamer Director—an item not mentioned on the Through Tickets!—This mile proved to be two, through mud nearly knee deep, and over a high hill exposed to the mid-day sun, and across logs thrown over the small streams. At about 5 o'clock, we were all on board the boat below the Rapids, and at dark reached the Castillo, around which we expected to go in doubt, the distance at low water being three hundred yards at this point. The stern-wheel boat —Sir Edward Bulwer—not having room with the passengers below, we were compelled to wait till 2 o'clock next day. At night many slept in the shantees and the majority on board the Director.

During our visit to the fort, most of the baggage had been removed on shore—barrows to the landing below, and until the boat made its appearance we sat down under the trees and spent our time in sleeping or observing the peculiarities of the foliage. On every tree I noticed hundreds of air plants, a parasite which attaches itself to any part of the trunk, dead or alive, it matters not which. I have three now hanging up in my state-room, (June 17th,) which I gathered at Castillo Rapids on the 7th. Until we came on board the steamer, a week since to-morrow, they were tumbled about in my basket with fruit and other things, and yet they are still living, but not so fresh as I presume they would have been if they had been out in the air and felt the influence of the rain and dew.—They are shaped like the top leaves of the pine-apple, and from the centre springs a beautiful orange flower, the upper end of which is a bright yellow.

Before 2 o'clock the boat was discovered rounding a point about a mile below where we were sailing. Very soon all was animation, gathering together their provisions, carpet bags and valises containing valuables; and when the passengers from below were landed, she was soon loaded again, and left on her downward trip. At about eight miles below our place of departure, she was run ashore, having broken one of her rudders, which was given as a reason why we should land there, and walk through an almost impenetrable jungle, where not a breath of air could penetrate, to the other boat five miles below, which I inferred was double that distance, and it proved to be so. At first the excitement was intense, and I would not have given five dollars for the Captain's life. Every one declared that they would not walk, and I was one that made that declaration, and intended to abide by it. After a good deal of gas was let off in the shape of breaking up the boat to make a raft, setting fire to her, &c., about forty concluded to follow the messenger of the Captain's, who was to go to the other boat. Not long after they left, it commenced raining furiously. That afternoon one of the crew discovered that the boat had sprung a leak, and was filling rapidly. Whether this was or was not the case, they certainly bailed out a good deal of water, when we made ourselves as comfortable as possible for the night. I had expected the boat would return and bring down the remainder of the passengers and baggage, and had in consequence left my pillows and blanket behind with my trunk. I, however, found no great difficulty in sleeping upon one of the seats with a cigar-box for a pillow.

The next night about sixty more left, there being no provision on board, they having sold it all out, at exorbitant prices. The information probably induced many to leave. I had plenty of soda crackers left, though all my fruit was gone, and plenty of water in the river, and did not for a moment think of depriving them of the extreme pleasure of taking the down the river, and at 11 o'clock two mast-boats appeared in sight, which had been sent up for the baggage. "Passengers first and baggage afterward," was our motto. They proved however large enough to take us all, with the trunks too within two miles to the steamer below.—The third rapids, called the Machuelle Rapids, many got above, but I was bent upon sailing all the way. Their warnings of great danger and impossibility of going over the boiling water and rocks with so heavy a load, did not frighten me from the trial. Most, however, left, and we were at one time in some danger of being upset ere we were on board the boat called the "Smith"—alongside of which lay the Snow, with the remainder of the Prometheus's passengers, among which were 60 ladies and abundance of children. I shared my crackers with some of the other sex, whose friends I knew on the Pacific side. We left this point at about 3 o'clock.

At dark we dropped anchor 35 miles below, at a place where wood was to be had, and early the next morning were underway for Greytown, where we arrived at 12 o'clock. The boat proceeded very slowly, owing to the shallowness of the water, and three times the passengers had to jump into the river and push the boat off the bars. These boats draw only from 12 to 18 inches of water. We ran alongside of the Prometheus, but was refused admission on board, and obliged to land at Greytown. Oh, those visions of something to eat, of pitchers of ice water, and a comfortable place to rest for the half-starved and miserable wretches! How they vanished! Well for the want of better, we were compelled to put up with such as we could get in this poverty-stricken, wretched, unhealthy hole. Here the fare was, but little better than at Virgin Bay. Five of us, however, had a room to ourselves, and three had cots. What a luxury! something to lift you above the filth of the floor! A bath in the river among the alligators and sharks was a luxury even without the clean shirt, which lay snugly stowed away in my trunk at Castillo Rapids, not to come until the other Californians came down. Why do not the short-sighted proprietors of this line make some distinction between cabin passengers and steerage? Why should one pay three times the price that the other does, unless he has some more privileges? On board the Pacific the steerage passengers were kept in their places, but everywhere else they have the same privileges, saying that they are not permitted to eat at the cabin table or occupy air state-rooms, which I suppose they would, if we did not keep them locked.

At Virgin Bay, demands were again made on our purses to assist some of the unfortunate persons who have through tickets for the S.S. Lewis, which steamer had not been heard of when we left the Pacific Ocean. One was to bury a poor fellow, whose stay on the Isthmus had been a week too long for his health; another, was for a mother and her three interesting little children, one an infant and the others about five and seven years of age; two of them were sick. She was going to meet her husband in California, and had waited for the S.S. Lewis until her money was gone. She was advised to go over to San Juan del Sud—and with a letter from one of our passengers to the Captain and Purser of the Pacific, with the hope that she could get on without further waiting.

Two days and six hours after we landed at Greytown, the remainder of our passengers arrived, and ran alongside the steamers, but were compelled to come on shore, carrying baggage to hotels, and to take them on board at daylight again the next night. To me seemed an unnecessary inconvenience and expense, more especially as we were obliged to go off in a heavy rain. Our through tickets had been exchanged for purser tickets, and we were repeatedly informed that we should be carried on board at the company's expense, and in the company's superior boats, which were two leaky scows, kept to take coal on board. In these conveyances we were taken on board, standing in water, for seven inches deep with which was mingled an abundance of coal dust. Arriving at the ship after four hours exposure to the torrent of rain, we were of necessity wet to the skin. Here we were obliged to get our own trunks on board, and as we went up the side, our checks were taken from us by the mate—an uncommon proceeding against which we remonstrated, knowing that it was only necessary to show them, but the mate refused us admission unless we did. Here was another ill result of the economy practised on the Vanderbilt line!—to save an agent's salary, the purser of the ship has to perform that duty. He could not be on shore and on board on the same time, and the duty of the purser was performed by another.

The consequence was that when the mate on board, all the passengers were driven to the upper deck, and remained in the drenching rain to receive back their tickets, without which they could not get their rooms or their dinners. The performance took four or five hours—after which we got underway. [illegible] made sick by this exposure, and all [illegible] appetite, work considerably hampered, [illegible] answered with much alacrity to the [illegible] dinner. Only when a chapter of [illegible] The delicious turkey, chickens, [illegible] provisions that you objected to as [illegible] offensive to our nasal organs, that [illegible] left the table. The next day [illegible] again, but on the third day no [illegible] anything till they were [illegible] was sufficient, the remainder [illegible] booked, and we were reduced [illegible] Many with colds, who did not [illegible] dishes, partook of them, and [illegible] attacked with dysentery. [illegible] for the ball provisions was [illegible] down to ten tuns at their [illegible] which the fresh meat is kept [illegible] counts it was too freely used [illegible] trip, and too much given away [illegible] town. As I learn from many [illegible] true that the sick and dying [illegible] for the want of [illegible] have been administered to the [illegible] venous systems of the sufferers [illegible] ing under the debilitating [illegible] rible climate.?

Three days out, one of our [illegible] who, by his good humor and [illegible] endeared himself to all, [illegible] and, in his leaving, [illegible] lunched into the sea. He took cold after [illegible] walking around the Toro Rapids, [illegible] produced dysentery, causing his [illegible] the gentlemen's room, to all appearance [illegible] California for the Pacific—but [illegible] years and a half, and [illegible] ily with a comfortable little [illegible] heart big with pleasant anticipations. His name was Roppe, [illegible] more." He was postmaster of [illegible] fornia, and left his business [illegible] charge of his brother. Here [illegible] up to the Captain, and shall [illegible] them. At this moment, [illegible] of our number, who is [illegible] sours, is being sewed up in a [illegible] vas. He died about half [illegible] ved. I heard him speak [illegible] and raising in the regular [illegible] poor fellow just opposite my [illegible] pected to survive, and they [illegible] on board. Many of the [illegible] cooks, the two mates, and [illegible] are among the number. [illegible] ship he had almost specified [illegible] hands enough left to get her [illegible] Yesterday, we ran 310 miles.

When we come on board the Prometheus, we supposed that we should find some order; that the rules, painted on tin and placed in a conspicuous place, forbidding steerage passengers to come aft of the wheel-house, would be enforced. How different when Capt. Churchill had command! Then, perfect order reigned throughout the ship; steerage passengers were kept in their places; the little quarter-deck room was left to those that paid for it. But now we find them stretched out at full length on the settees and occupying the most desirable situations on the ship; some of them even eat at the cabin table. And, when one of our passengers complained to the captain, he replied: "Poor fellows; 'tis rather hard for them. Let them make themselves comfortable. If they get in your berths, turn them out." This was but poor satisfaction to those who had paid three times as much as they did; and we had to endure.

On Sunday, June 20th, at 8 o'clock A M another of our passengers went to his last resting place, and now another still has just departed; many others are not expected to survive till night. The chief engineer is very ill, indeed the waiters are falling one after another; many of the sailors are down; and if we do not soon get to port soon, God only knows what will become of us. The physician of the ship told me this morning that there was not a dozen well persons on board, out of five or six hundred. [illegible] dressed to see the sick and dying and no proper food for them to eat, and [illegible] to cool their parched lips, and a wretched filthy ship, on board of which one cannot escape the nauseating stench—it is not much to be wondered at that so many are sick. One poor, emaciated being, whose life was despaired of for several days, told me this morning that he paid two dollars for a piece of ice the size of an egg, when he first came on board at Greytown.

It is time that I should get up to go ashore, as Long Branch is just ahead of me.

Whig State Convention—Railroads—Works at Rouse's Point.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier.

Burlington, (Vt.) July 7, 1852.

The Whigs of Vermont assembled to-day in good round numbers in this village, for the purpose of nominating candidates for State officers. The towns in the State were well represented by as true hearted whigs as ever breathed New England air. They came together full of life and enthusiasm, determined to do their part in placing the hero of Chippewa and Chapultepec, in the Presidential Chair. That Vermont will give her vote for him is no doubt, and it seems to me that Maine will go and do likewise. There are hundreds in your State who have fought the battles of the Democracy, under the gallant Scott, the greatest Captain of the age. These old soldiers know him and have often seen him in that position which tries men's souls. And have they ever seen him in a place which he did not meet admirably fill? Ask these old soldiers and all those who are best acquainted with the traits of his noble character, and their answer will be, that the old Hero has always been found fully equal to the task imposed upon him, whether that task was to fight successfully the battles of his country, or to negotiate a peace. A long life has been devoted to the service of his country, and he has never been found wanting in any emergency.

Such a spirit as has been manifested here to-day, if it but pervades the masses of the States as it does the Green Mountain Boys, will most assuredly secure the election of Gen. Scott. The people poured into this beautiful village in great numbers, and the State Convention was most gloriously attended. The solid old farmers on horseback [illegible] State, and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

GREAT ATTRACTION!
AT MARKET HALL!
THE Great Historical Mirror
—OF—
AMERICA!

Will open at Market Hall on MONDAY EVENING, July 12th, for a few days only.

THIS Painting is without doubt the greatest work of Art ever exhibited in this Country, being painted on nearly 20,000 square feet of Canvas at an expense of upwards of $15,000. It represents the principal events in the History of our Country, for a space of about 400 years, extending from the landing of Columbus in 1492 to the battle of New Orleans in 1815, embracing as it does a greater variety of scenes than any other subject that could be presented—giving a correct history of our country from its settlement "a feeble colony" to its present position "occupying the highest pinicle of National Glory."

The Proprietor feels confident in saying an evening cannot be more profitably and pleasantly spent—than in acquiring a correct knowledge of our Country's History.

Principle Artist—Mr. E. P. Batues, of N. York
Musical Director—Prof. Lamont.
Delineator—Dr. A. J. Thompson, of N. Orleans

Lesage's Specific,
NEVER failing remedy for thoroughly eradicating diseases of the Urinary Organs, such as Gonnorrhœ, Gleets, Whites, Strictures, Stone in the Bladder, &c, and needs but to be once used to be universally esteemed. The proprietor would respectfully caution those troubled with the above annoying complaints, to beware of those empirics, who unprincipled individuals, without the least knowledge of the structure of the human parts, recommend for every disease. Lesage's Specific is only intended for the cure of Private Diseases, and the thousands that have sent their solicited certificates which for its efficacy, while better it is known the greater is the demand for it. How different from the various quack medicines which, when the unhappy patient has once used, no inducement can ever make try again.—Lesage's Specific has been the remedy depended on by every class, the senator, the lawyer, the merchant, the seaman, and the dashing cyprian have all tried it and found it truly the good Samaritan in the hour of trouble.

Dr. Darby annexes extracts from some of his certificates:

Pictorial Geography
OF THE WORLD.
By S. G. Goodrich, adapted by literary gentlemen from abroad.

ITS size is super royal, 8 by 10, and consists of 1008 pages, and more than 1000 engravings, elaborately presented, so as to fix in the mind facts that not only illustrate but distinguish geographical locations, containing a vast amount of various and important intelligence, embracing a popular and splendid system of modern Geography.

It is extremely useful to the young, being illustrative as well as descriptive geography and interesting as a novel to read. It includes recent discoveries in all quarters of the Globe, with copious statistical and commercial tables, derived from the highest European and American sources, embracing authentic information in every department connected with the subject, and it will be found to be more full and complete, than any Geography yet published in the United States. This work is continued, and a supplementary volume will be issued when the census and statistics now printing by Congress, shall be completed. As this supplementary volume will be furnished to all who desire it, it will give a permanent value to this work which attaches to no other work of the kind.

The above work in consequence of its continuation, is entirely excluded from the trade. The Agent, therefore, will call upon the families and individuals and furnish the book to those who want it.

CARRIAGES!
Patronise Home Manufactures.

WE are manufacturing Light Carriages of every description, which we are prepared to warrant equal to any in the market without any exception. We have purchased the right to use a patent attachment for Four Wheeled Carriages, whereby Carriages can be made to turn in a very small compass, describing a circle of 6 feet, also avoiding the grating noise occasioned in turning, which is desirable as the wheels do not come in contact with the body. We wish it understood that we hold ourselves responsible for the failure of our work in consequence of the use of poor stock or work.

We also manufacture Elliptic and Side Springs of a superior quality.

Jobbing in every branch promptly attended to at fair prices.

25,000 Sold per Year!
The Unsurpassed and Unsurpassable
Bay State Stove,
OF SIX SIZES, of heavy and smooth castings—price from $15 to $50—celebrated for its whole cooking apparatus, carrying off the smoke unbroiling, and not to be exceeded in baking, frying, boiling, &c., &c., or in durability and economy—may be had, as heretofore, at the well known and long established
Stove, Furnace and Range
DEPOT,
Nos. 80 & 82 MAIN STREET, and 2 and 4 WALL STREET, OF
N. JOHNSON,
Who is SOLE Agent, and always has been for this market, for the sale of the celebrated Stove above named, of which 25,000 were sold the past year, and of which some 30,000 will not be more than sufficient to supply the demand the present year.

The BAY STATE is sold and warranted as usual. Returned after an unsatisfactory trial of 30 days, the price paid will be refunded, together with interest and cost of returning.

Persons purchasing the BAY STATE, and desiring repairs, are not subjected to the trouble of sending to Rhode Island or New York for castings, nor to wait in Bangor for them, AS I HAVE THEM ON HAND!

A CHALLENGE OF $50.

Is proposed, that 50 Stoves of six sizes, of any other pattern than the BAY STATE, (for which I am sole Agent,) cannot be produced which will compare with the 50 I now have on hand, in thickness and smoothness of Castings, or in facility and capacity of broiling, baking, boiling, or other cooking requisite.

☞ The public are specially requested not to mistake a Stove called the "IMPROVED" BAY STATE, which is a cheaper and inferior article, of thinner and less durable castings, and which is sometimes advertised without the word "Improved" as a prefix, for the original and genuine BAY STATE, which has been so generally and thoroughly tested and admired.

All other kinds of STOVES constantly on hand, as above, which will be sold at reduced prices.

Bangor Air-Tight COOKING STOVE
THE best Cook Stove ever introduced to this or any other people.

Having secured the sole agency of this very desirable Stove, I take great pleasure in offering it to my customers and the public. This Stove was invented expressly for this eastern market, by those experienced and expert Stove manufacturers, Messrs. Easter & Whittier, who know, and have appreciated the wants of this enlightened people. It is now offered to the public with the fullest confidence in its merits, and its superiority over every other Cooking apparatus ever introduced for its conveniences for Baking, Broiling, Frying, &c., are not surpassed, and its extensive and beautiful Oven for Baking and Roasting, will at once recommend itself to the Ladies. One very important feature is, it has very short and smooth castings, and being manufactured in this city, can at all times be repaired, at a very moderate expense, without subjecting one to wait for castings to be ordered from New York, Rhode Island, or elsewhere. Every Stove is warranted one year, and one not giving entire satisfaction may be returned and the money will be refunded after 30 days trial.

—ALSO—

A great variety of other patterns of cooking Stoves, such as the
Our State, Bay State, Empire State, Granite State, State of Maine, &c.,
All or any of which, will be sold at extremely low prices.

Elevated Oven Stoves—Hampden 3 and 4 Boiler and two Oven—Boston two oven Stoves, Forrest-Queen, &c.—and that very beautiful pattern, of Cottage Parlor Cook Stove, and in fact every variety of Stove for Cooking or warming, worthy of notice, can be found at the Central Street Store and Furnace Depot, No 15 17, 19 21

George Hummell's PREMIUM ESSENCE OF COFFEE.

ONE package at 12½ cents will cover four pounds of Coffee! Thousands of families, not only of the poorer but also of the most genteel and richest and many of the first physicians of the land, and of other places where the Coffee made with this Essence is much relished sooner, more delicate, more flavored, perfectly pure, clear, and in every instance better than the best Java Coffee.

This Essence was awarded a silver medal by the American Institute of New York, also a premium by the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia 1851 in both instances the highest premium for such articles

☞ See the certificates in our circulars of Drs Booth and Chilton, two of the first practical chemists in the United States, also of several other prominent chemists.
